

A worker cannot be laid-off, suspended or penalized for refusing unsafe work.

“WHMIS” requires employers to label hazardous material

Health & Safety Committees must meet at least four times a year.

Employers must inform workers about hazards on the job.

“WHMIS” requires employers to give workers Material Safety Data Sheets with information on hazardous materials.

Workplaces that have 20 or more workers must have a health and safety committee.

Workplaces that have between 10-19 workers must have a health and safety representative chosen by the workers.

Workers have the right to refuse to do a job if they believe it may be dangerous.

Employers must inform workers
about hazards on the job.

Workers have the right to decide who represents them on the health and safety committee.

Health and safety committees do workplace inspections, investigate accidents, and discuss health and safety concerns.